Human Development Research Centre (HDRC) has been a proven leader in socio-economic studies in Bangladesh over the last 26 years, with more than 350 studies since 1999. Humane development through research and action – guided by this motto, HDRC, through research studies of outstanding quality and a high level of accuracy, has achieved a particular position in the development arena. Collection and management of large-scale quantitative and qualitative data, analytical ability by triangulation of data gathered from different sources and tools, statistical analysis, and report writing in English and Bangla are core skills of HDRC. Research ethics, gender norms, equal opportunities in work, and positive discrimination towards the disadvantaged strictly adhere to HDRC. One can have details about HDRC at www.hdrc-bd.com.

Establishment

HDRC HQ is located on their premise in Dhaka. The total floor space is approximately 10,000 square feet. HDRC has in-house training facilities, computer facilities for data management, word processing, and customized software to suit its requirements. The Centre is equipped with communication and transport facilities. In addition to paper and pencil-assisted personal interviewing (PAPI), HDRC is also well equipped with an ample number of gadgets (tabs) and supports for performing computer-assisted personal interviewing (CAPI). HDRC uses updated software to analyse quantitative data (SPSS, STATA) and qualitative information (Nvivo and Atlas.ti).

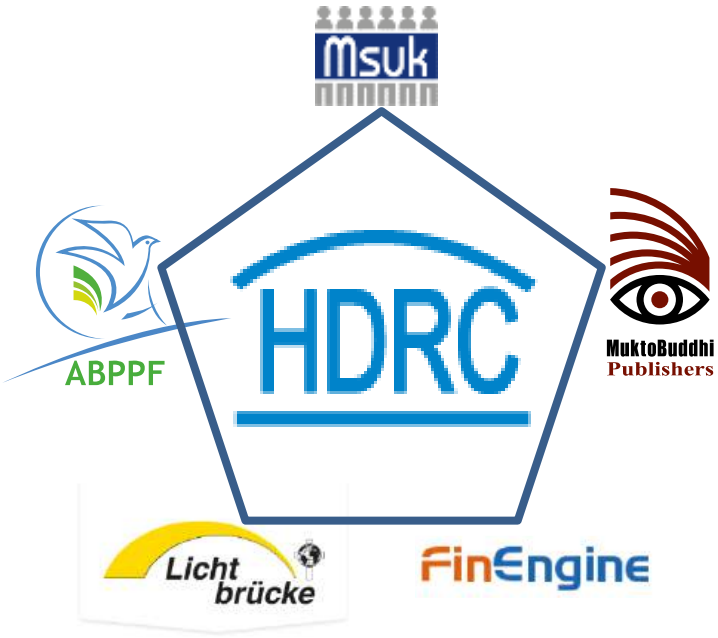

Areas of Expertise & Interests

HDRC, from its inception, has been conducting extensively multidisciplinary research, applied research, and program evaluation. In the research arena, HDRC's interest covers policy and strategy research, operations research, survey, evaluation, and assessment.

The major domain of HDRC's interest covers actions in the fields of population, health, reproductive health, primary health care, adolescent health and well-being, education, gender, human development, human resource development, poverty and inequality, poverty graduation, human deprivation, rights-based approaches to development, distributive justice, macro and microeconomics, human rights, local governance and decentralisation, labour market and employment, informal sector, development of indigenous people, land, agriculture, rural development, migration, micro-credit, nature and environment, ecology and development, infrastructure, social protection and safety net, social and economic structures, water-sanitation-hygiene, tobacco economics, national budget, infectious diseases and development, cost-effectiveness and cost-benefit studies, value for money, police and crime studies, policy research, management, and marketing. HDRC has made visible contributions to national policy-making areas, particularly in health, population, education, gender development, land rights, infrastructure, and development of the poor, marginalised, disadvantaged, and indigenous people.

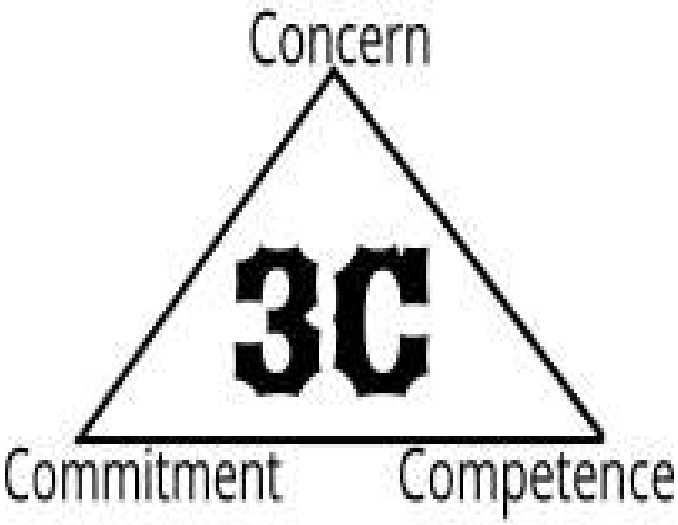

HDRC Umbrella

Under the HDRC umbrella, along with HDRC, five sister concerns work individually and collaboratively: Manob Sakti Unnayan Kendro (MSUK), Muktibuddhi Publishers, AB Peace and Progress Foundation (ABPPF), Licht Brucke and FinEngine. It partners with Daffodil International University (DIU) and Pari Foundation (A Non-Profit Organisation). HDRC is also a member of the UNCTAD Virtual Institute on Trade and Development since 2013.

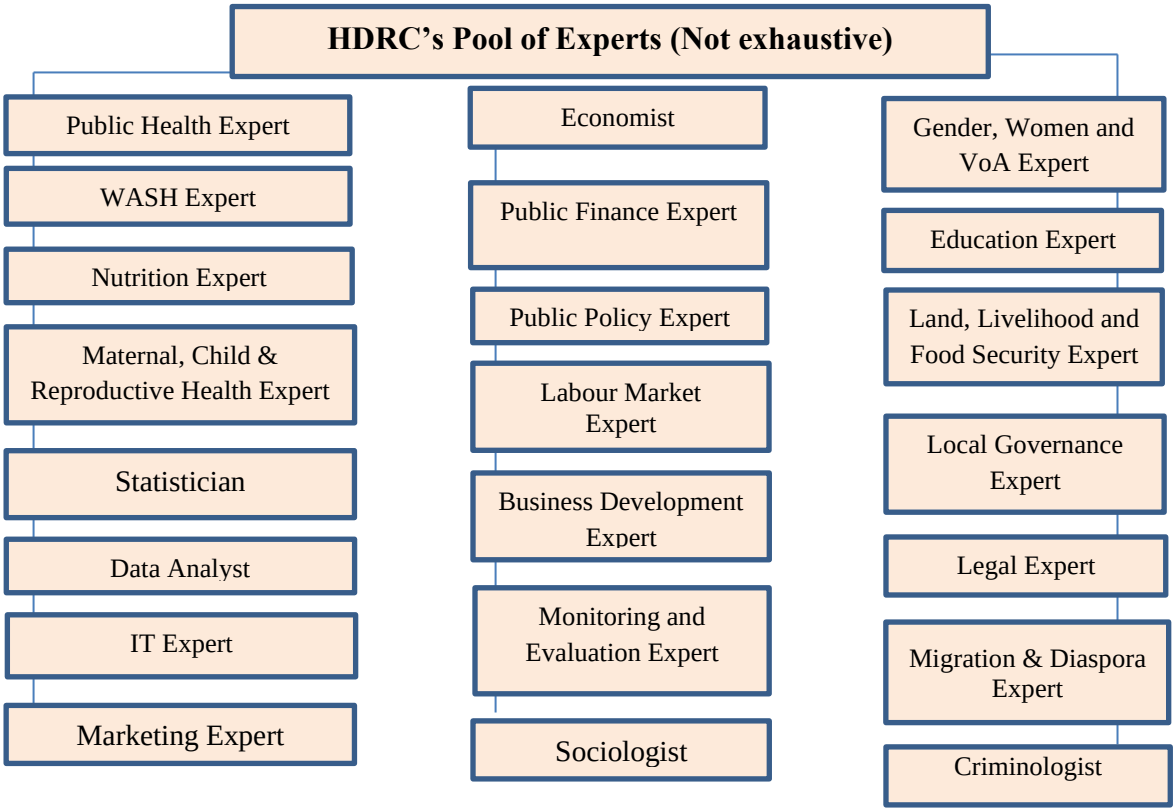

Human Resources

HDRC has a pool of multidisciplinary experts from the relevant fields of development. Currently, the organisation comprises more than 60 Research Consultants. HDRC has a strong management set-up with competent and efficient personnel and a reporting system under which certain specific responsibilities are performed. The organisation has skilled and experienced data management, processing, and word-processing staff, including Information and Communication Technology support and experts. HDRC is governed by a board of advisors that meets once a year and provides policy guidance in line with HDRC's mission and changing environment. Each year, the board of advisors selects one Chief Advisor responsible for leading HDRC.

Our Services

Research & Evaluation

HDRC has worked extensively in multidisciplinary research, applied research, and program evaluation from the very beginning. In research, HDRC's interests include policy and strategy research, operations research, survey, evaluation, and assessment. It has a multifaceted structure with many specialists drawn from diverse disciplines. Most of our specialists have long-standing experiences in the relevant fields of research. HDRC offers services in sampling, instrument design, data collection, data analysis and interpretation, and the use of data to foster policy and programmatic changes. We enable clients to evaluate programs and interventions effectively and link data to quality improvement activities.

Actions

HDRC is guided by the mission – of 'Humane development through research and action'. HDRC's vision is to accelerate the process of humane development through research and actions. The major domain of HDRC's interest covers actions in the fields of population, health, reproductive health, primary health care, education, gender, human resource development, human rights, development of indigenous people, land, agriculture, rural development, micro-credit, environment, management, and marketing. HDRC has made visible contributions to national policy-making areas, particularly in health, population, education, gender development, land rights, infrastructure, and development of the poor, marginalized, disadvantaged, and indigenous people.

Training

To carry out and maintain its high-quality, knowledge-based products, HDRC always conducts extensive training sessions. Using customized training methods, off-the-shelf courses, and computer-based training products, HDRC creates and implements impact-oriented training programs. The in-house training session is conducted by expert consultants associated with HDRC. The experts associated with HDRC have designed a vibrant training framework to improve organizational performance. Besides in-house training, the researchers, research assistants, and associates participate in various training sessions and workshops organized by other organizations at home and abroad. HDRC also has noteworthy experience arranging and conducting high-quality training sessions or workshops.

Management Services Contracts

HDRC provided management and technical oversight services to Bangladesh's Michigan International Development (MID) and Die Lichtbrücke, DLB (Germany) projects.

Logistics

Training Facility & Related

HDRC has 2,000 square feet of space for a training venue (for 50 persons) and is equipped with all the training instruments, including two multimedia projectors, a sound system, whiteboards, flip charts, and screens. This venue was designed to address gender sensitivity issues, including sitting arrangements and toilet facilities. There is sufficient space for group work and relaxation during the breaks for the training participants. HDRC supplies training materials (including a folder, pad, pen, and pencil) and refreshments for training participants. HDRC also provides all the required facilities, including separate cubicles, laptops, printers, and other necessities.

To maintain the high quality of its knowledge-based products, HDRC always maintains quality training sessions. Using customised training methods, off-the-shelf courses, and interactive training products, HDRC creates and implements impact-oriented training programs. The in-house training session is conducted by the expert consultants associated with HDRC. The experts associated with HDRC have designed a vibrant training framework to improve organisational performance. Besides in-house training, the researchers, research assistants, and associates participate in various training sessions and workshops organised by other organisations at home and abroad. HDRC also has outstanding experience arranging and conducting high-quality training sessions, seminars, conferences, and workshops.

Equipment

Data management at HDRC

The air-conditioned office premises of HDRC have computer facilities for data management and customised software as required. The organisation, at its disposal, has 48 up-to-date computers with a local area network (LAN), Broadband, and Wifi internet facilities. Two heavy-duty generators provide an uninterrupted power supply. HDRC has separate spaces with cubicles for data entry. There is a secure room to preserve filled-in interview schedules and space for meeting editing and coding purposes. The entire premise is under surveillance by the closed-circuit TV camera. A well-built fire extinguishing system has been placed in HDRC. The office is well equipped with updated digital still and video cameras, heavy-duty printers and photocopiers, scanners, sound recorders, GPS machines, tablet PCs, and tablets for data collection.

100% Error-Free Automated Data Entry System in HDRC

With its proven experience in data management, HDRC has successfully conducted many large surveys efficiently, where quantitative and qualitative data processing was a major part. This competency has been realised through HDRC's dedication to new technology (hardware and software), utilising those technologies by skilled human resources. Lately, HDRC has entered a new era of data entry through a completely automated system. In this process, 100% error-free data entry is practised at HDRC quickly using state-of-the-art technologies such as customised software.

HDRC, in its possession, has all the necessary hardware facilities to complete the data computerisation. Following is a list of available hardware facilities for data computerisation.

Library

The computerised library has about 20,000 books, journals, and reports using the Computerised Documentation Systems of HDRC.

Media, Advocacy and Publication (MAP)

HDRC maintains a media, advocacy, and publication house run by reputed media and communication professionals. Its vision is to create an alternative dimension in media communication and publication. Every member of the MAP team is experienced in different media communication and publication fields. Consequently, a built-in editorial capacity has been developed, and the organization's books and printing materials have been published regularly. HDRC-MAP staff members are highly skilled in designing and developing multidimensional media materials, including 3D & 2D Animation and documentary films, organizing and managing events, editing, copywriting, and proofreading tasks in English and Bangla.

Experiences

Large-scale survey experience

HDRC has vast experience in comprehensive data management. HDRC has completed many research studies with high value-addition in knowledge and policy utility. HDRC is well-reputed in the field for its responsiveness and high-quality products. HDRC has proven expertise in large-scale data collection and management capability, which is indicated through the following:

1. Number of DCIs (range): 1 to 25
2. Number of Tables introduced into each questionnaire (range): 1 to 45
3. Number of variables in each study (range): 750 to 2,200
4. Number of Sample Size (range): 500 to 75,000
5. Number of pages in a questionnaire (range): 5 to 70

Tab-based survey experience

For the last eight years, HDRC has been highly habituated to a digital data gathering (or DDG) platform for data collection from the field level, using personal digital assistants (PDAs or smartphones), tablets, and netbooks. During this period, HDRC has notably experienced and can collect data through digital data-gathering platforms.

Firstly, the application to collect online-based data is commonly prepared using the ODK platform (KOBO toolbox), Survey Solution, SurveyCTO, mWater, or CSPro 7.7 (or other platform specified by the client), then set the format into Tablets for field-level data collection. After filling in the data collection format, field personnel upload/submit the filled-in data to the HDRC server. During the data collection process, HDRC follows and monitors the process and provides necessary assistance to the Field Enumerators. After collecting data for analysis, the IT Manager and Systems Analyst convert the data into the SPSS database, STATA software, MS Excel, or MS Access as required.

Tablet-Based Surveys Conducted in Recent Years

HDRC has an impressive track record of conducting tablet-based surveys since 2017. Over eight years, HDRC conducted many tablet-based surveys. Some of the tablet-based surveys are listed below:

Dissemination Activities

HDRC disseminates major findings and recommendations of the research to the pertinent stakeholders who can use them and maximise the benefit of the research. HDRC, in almost every instance, disseminates its research findings to its key audience, usually as the concluding part of the process. To make the dissemination most effective, HDRC develops a customised dissemination plan for every research study, considering the nature of the work. HDRC identifies the strategies for dissemination and the targeted audience, considering the resources available at the best possible time. It engages the key stakeholders in the process as proactive agents. HDRC identifies messages and the best channels to reach the expected coverage and prepares necessary dissemination materials. HDRC is an expert in preparing presentation slides, brief research reports, press releases, and policy briefs for dissemination. In required cases, media connections and coverage are ensured through dedicated efforts. The potential risks and sensitivities are considered with due respect within the relevant current cultural and political climate. HDRC researchers are well-equipped to disseminate research findings using state-of-the-art technologies. They can deliver in both English and local languages. The HDRC management has the proven capacity to organise high-level policy dissemination sessions, maintaining all professional and ethical standards.

Advocacy works

HDRC has experience in implementing successful research-based advocacies. Based on rigorous research, HDRC sets SMART (Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Realistic, and Timely) goals for any such work. To make the advocacy most effective, HDRC develops a customized strategy that considers the nature of the work. HDRC identifies the targeted audience by considering the resources available at the best possible time. It engages the key stakeholders, builds coalitions and organizes relevant groups. HDRC develops messages and the best possible channels to reach the targeted stakeholders and prepare necessary materials.

HDRC's advocacy has facilitated increasing the price of harmful tobacco products

HDRC conducted a series of research-based studies on advocacies towards effective tobacco taxation in Bangladesh. This was supported by the Campaign for Tobacco-Free Kids (CTFK) between 2012 and 2015. A very comprehensive and evidence-based 'Proposed Tobacco-Tax Policy 2015' with specific time-bound guiding principles was drafted by HDRC, which is the first of its kind in Bangladesh. Besides, several policy briefs for policymakers, advocacy materials for the honourable Members of Parliament (MPs), and press materials for journalists were developed. The MPs were continuously sensitized on a one-to-one basis. As a result of those sensitization activities, many MPs issued DO letters to the National Board of Revenue in favour of increasing tax on all tobacco products. Post and pre-budget press conferences organized by HDRC and video documentaries aired on the national television channels were highly effective in creating pressure on the government. The concerted efforts of the HDRC—ensuring proactive participation of the active tobacco control groups in Bangladesh—have encouraged the government to revise the tax structure, which has significantly increased the price of tobacco products. The increase in the price has resulted in a decrease.

National Forum on Dairy Development formed with support from Oxfam GB

Oxfam GB has been implementing a development component titled "Scaling up Inclusive Dairy Markets" under the REE-CALL framework (Resilience through Economic Empowerment, Climate Adaptation, Leadership and Learning Framework) since May 2014 in several Char areas in the Northern parts of Bangladesh. Under the Gendered Enterprise Markets (GEM) and Enterprise Development Programme (EDP), Oxfam in Bangladesh Programme wants to build its influencing strategy. To carry out this initiative, a National Forum on Dairy Development has been formed and facilitated by the HDRC as an effective advocacy instrument. The Forum includes a member of parliament, government livestock extension service providers, the central bank, specialized and commercial banks and financial institutions, journalists, eminent academicians, researchers, the union of milk corporative, NGO, the association of the economist, apex body of the commerce and industries, development partners and member of the production groups organised at the grassroots level (to coordinate and promote dairy activities in community level). Member of the Parliament, Advocate Umme Kulsum Smriti, is the President of this forum. Since the forum's inception on 29th May 2016, the forum has been contributing visibly to the policy sphere.

HDRC has drafted a Migration Governance Framework

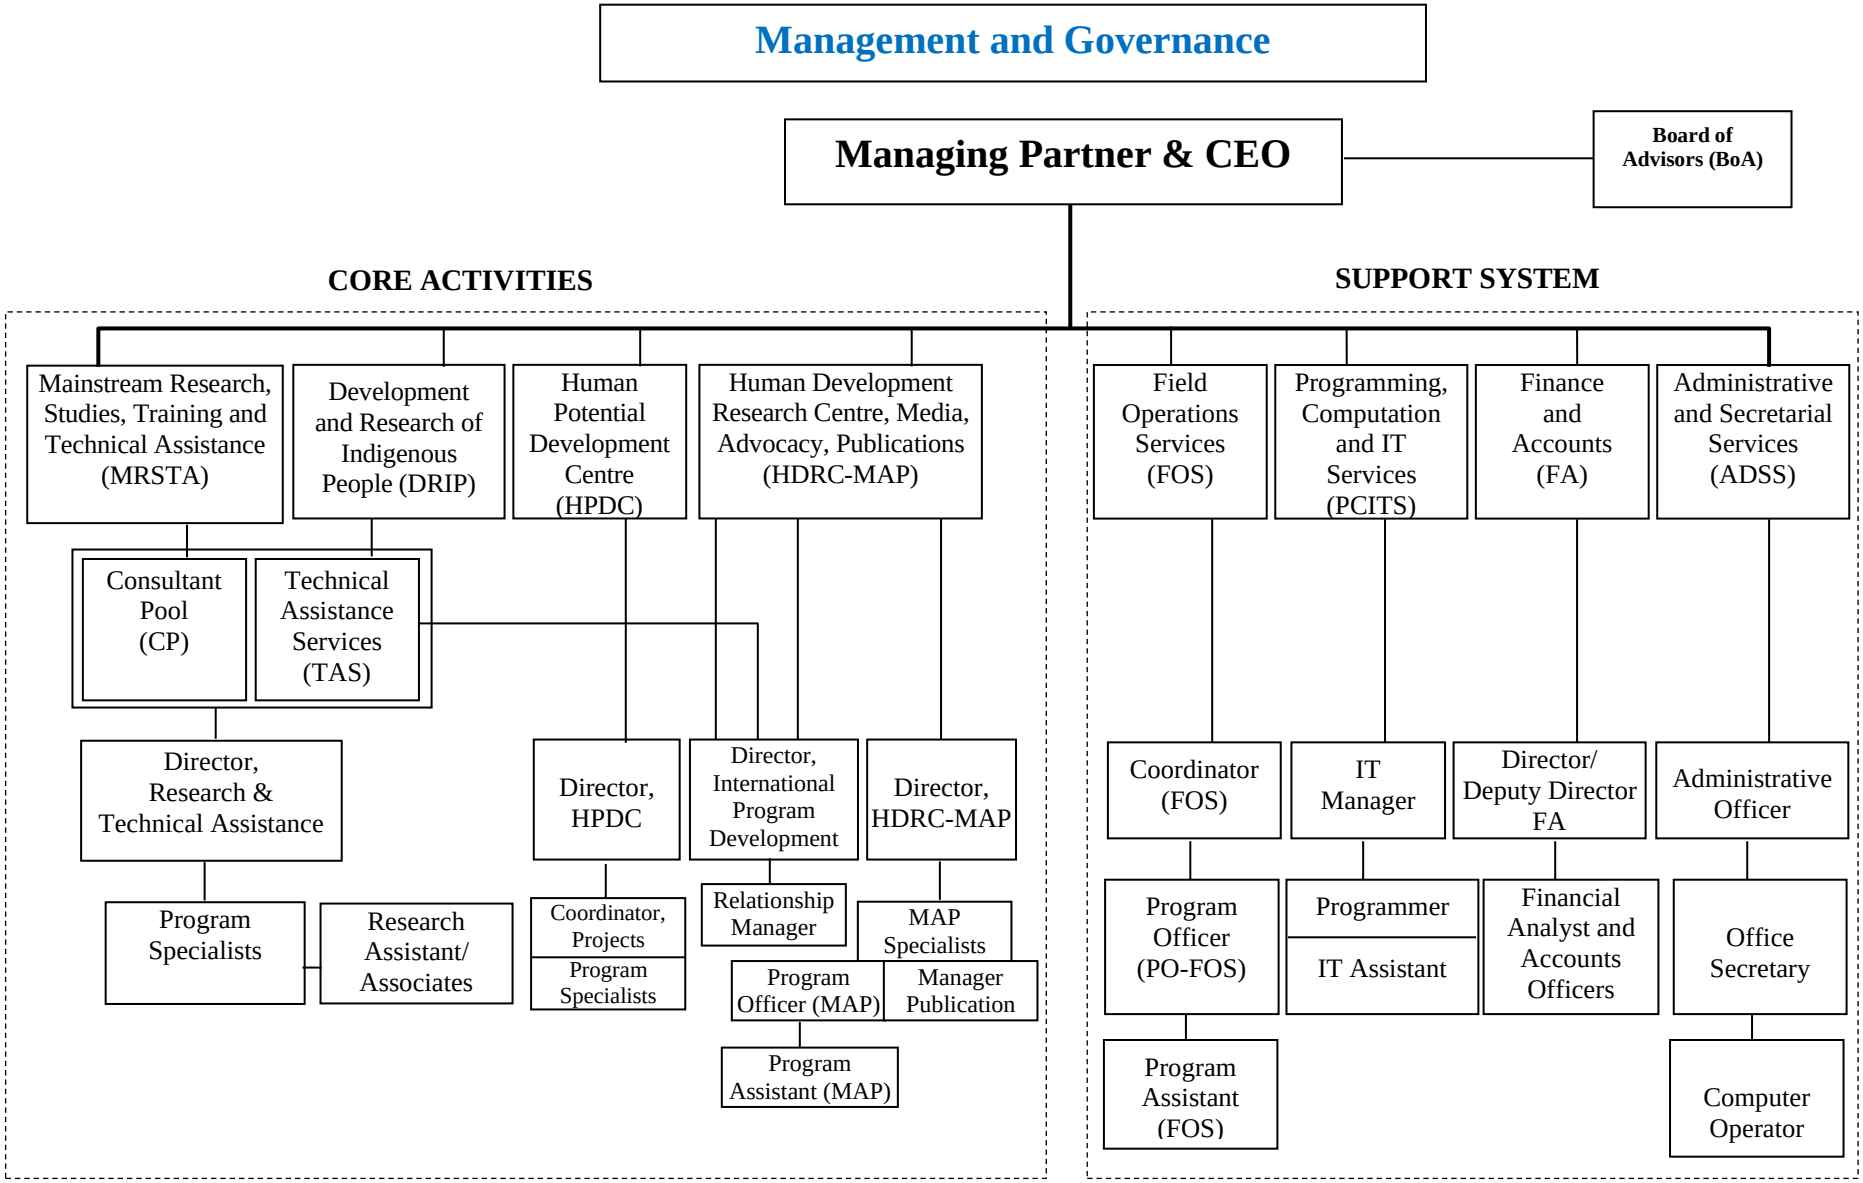

Commissioned by IOM Bangladesh under funding support from the European Union (EU) funded project "Bangladesh: Sustainable Reintegration and Improved Migration Governance (Prottasha)". This framework is the very first of its kind on the globe. On 18th September 2018, a National Sharing and Validation Workshop was held in Dhaka and organized by IOM in close coordination with GoB and the EU. The dissemination of the framework was followed by a fruitful discussion with the active participation of distinguished guests from all the relevant agencies in the sector.

Land law review work was disseminated and handed over to the Honorable Law Minister

Land-related legal problems have persisted in Bangladesh for decades in their worst form. It is now well understood that land laws and policies currently in force in Bangladesh are mostly scattered and complex in many areas. More frustrating are the contradictions, ambiguity, non-compliance with pro-poor interests, and problems with the law and practice, mounting in land disputes, litigation, and sufferings of the poor, marginalized, and Indigenous peoples. The legal side needs to be substantiated with an evidence-based study on different social perspectives so that the 'excluded' are 'included' in the truest sense of development. Comprehending the mighty importance of this reality, the Human Development Research Centre (HDRC), with support from the Manusher Jonno Foundation, has conducted a Himalayan task titled "Land Laws in Bangladesh: A Rights-based Analysis and Suggested Changes" from 2011 to 2015. This study's underlying objective was to review Bangladesh's land laws to identify their effectiveness and limitations and prepare draft laws with necessary recommendations.
